

Editorial Note

From the Editor's desk

Rajesh Malik¹

¹Department of Radiodiagnosis and Imaging, All India Institute of Medical Sciences, Bhopal, India.

Dear Colleagues,

The journal “Future Health”, has been designed to be a vehicle for the delivery of timely and thoughtful information and opinion on the many issues that involve the medical community.

It is indeed a great pleasure to write the editorial of a new journal! This Radiology Issue marks a significant step in the development of the publications emanating from the field of Radiology. This edition has assimilated all the needs and, in some ways, may prove more popular with the average general radiologist.

I offer my thanks to both the authors and reviewers, who have helped us in submitting, shortlisting and updating the articles and bringing them to this final shape of publication. Our aim, in fact, is to follow the process that had already begun in taking the journal forward from its infancy.

For readers of our journal, we hope you enjoy and learn and find it a source of up-to-date and high-quality information. The Journal has focussed on publishing original articles of interest in the field of Radiology as well as review articles, pictorial reviews, case reports (unique, highly relevant and educationally valuable cases), case series, photo essay and a brief communication.

I truthfully hope that you will find “Future Health” issues of interest, and that you will enjoy and benefit from reading the publication at least as much I have in the past.

Best wishes and happy reading.

Professor (Dr) Rajesh Malik

How to cite this article: Malik R. Editorial. Future Health. 2014;2:1. doi: 10.25259/FH_22_2024

This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution-Non Commercial-Share Alike 4.0 License, which allows others to remix, tweak, and build upon the work non-commercially, as long as the author is credited and the new creations are licensed under the identical terms.

©2024 Published by Scientific Scholar on behalf of Future Health